

The only way to experience Dope Robot's hardware-only approach to electronic music – in clubs with a "DAWless" rig or in the streets with a custom-made portable synthesizer – is in person, because every Dope Robot live show or recording is 100% live, all the time. This artist is dedicated to all-hardware production and performance in a way few have envisioned before – where every song and set lives and breathes, changes and grows, like a real organism. This makes every Dope Robot show a unique and must-see performance, where expert control of machines and custom live visualizations come together to bring you a one-of-a-kind experience, revealing powerful truths through art while stirring the frequencies of the soul.
